

School Closings/Alerts Network for Media

Since 2004, WeatherThreat.com has been the preferred closings system for much of the United States. We have worked with several of the largest media organizations in the country as well as countless “tiny” stations and schools of all sizes and locations. The end user consists of the schools, businesses, and other organizations who will be entering most of these closings using their individual accounts. It is the listeners, readers, and viewers who then ultimately absorb that information through your websites, TV crawlers, and other routes of syndication.
